

Andrew Co. Republican. With Supplement.

TERMS: $1.50 per year, in advance.

FRIDAY MORNING, JUNE 5, 1874.

SECRETARY of the Treasury Richardson, having escaped the moiety investigation only by "the skin of his teeth," has tendered his resignation, which was promptly accepted, and General B. H. Bristow, of Kentucky, appointed in his place. The appointment is said to give general satisfaction, and was promptly confirmed by the Senate. Richardson was appointed and barely confirmed as Judge of the Court of Claims.

We are informed that a Protective Association has been organized in Rochester, the object of which is to hunt down and mete out justice to horse thieves. They mean business, the society now numbering nearly two hundred members.

Circuit Court, Judge Kelley presiding, is in session this week. On Tuesday the motion to admit Henry Alexander, under charge of murder, to bail, was overruled.

Decision of the State Auditor on the Recent Act of the Legislature in Reference to the Redemption of Lands.

STATE OF MISSOURI, AUDITOR'S OFFICE, CITY OF JEFFERSON, May 12, 1874.

Inasmuch as question exists in several counties of the State as to the effect of an act of the General Assembly entitled: "An act to provide for the redemption of lands heretofore forfeited to the State for non-payment of taxes," approved March 31, 1874, (session acts 1874, page 100,) and whether the operation of this act until the first day of January, 1875, works a suspension during the period intervening of the privilege of purchase by disinterested parties, (under the provisions of section 223 and 198 of the general revenue law of 1872,) I deem it proper to give the official construction of this department concerning it, as the uniform rule to be observed by all officers charged with the execution of these acts.

The immediate object contemplated by an enactment of the act above alluded to, is the release of its lien upon the large quantity of land heretofore forfeited to the State for non-payment of taxes due thereon, and the immediate realization into the public treasury of the very considerable sums of revenue due upon them.

It is entirely clear that the benefits of the act are conferred alone upon the owners or other persons interested in such lands, (as, for example, those in interest by virtue of mortgages or deeds of trust); its provisions, however, conferring upon such interested party redeeming them, no title whatever, but simply releasing to them whatever lien thereon may have heretofore accrued to the State by reason of the delinquency.

The conditions precedent to the acquisition of these benefits, are that such owner or other person interested shall pay to the Collector of his county the full amount of such taxes and all costs, without accrued interest or penalty," etc.

The privileges conferred are not guaranteed to the owners of all lands forfeited to the State, and remaining undecreed or unsold at the date of the approval of the act, to the extent of an exemption from sale, (under the provisions of either section 223 or 198 of the general revenue law of March 30, 1872,) during the entire time for which said redemption act shall remain in force.

Otherwise the operation of said redemption act of 1874 would work a serious injury, rather than a benefit, to the State, inasmuch as the owners of forfeited lands might, with impunity, neglect the payment of revenue due upon their property, until the last day of the present year—an immunity not contemplated either by the framers of the act or the General Assembly which enacted it.

The act in question simply confers a privilege which may be extended to the 31st day of December, 1874, in case the land should not be sold prior to that time, under the provisions of either section 198 or 223 of the general revenue law.

Should the owner of a tract of forfeited land, by neglect, permit another to become the purchaser under authority of either of the above sections last above cited, he can only be considered as having thereby voluntarily forfeited the conditional privilege of redemption extended to him in the terms of the limited act of March 31, 1874. Whatever disadvantage or loss he may incur by such neglect, is a result from which the law does not undertake to shield him.

The acts cited are not, in my opinion, in conflict, and therefore hold the provisions of each to be in full force.

GEO. B. CLARK, State Auditor.
